CHILE'S EXPERIMENT

SPECIE PAYMENT RESUMED BY THE REPUBLIC LAST SATURDAY.

A Return to the Gold Standard After Seventeen Years' Use of Paper Money-Illinois Silverites.

WASHINGTON, June 3.-Senor Don Gana, the Chilian minister, has received the following cablegram from Santiago: "It is very gratifying for me to inform you that after seventeen years of the reme of paper money Chili has returned with satisfaction and confidence to the gold standard. The law is in force.

"FERNANDEZ, Minister of Finance." The resumption of specie payments in Chill, which occurred on last Saturday, promises to furnish some interesting lessons on coinage legislation. Reports from there say that the government tried to familiarize he people with the new forms of silver and gold coin by getting out a preliminary issue. They were quickly exchanged for the old paper money, but as soon as the novelty worn off the people were glad to go back to the more convenient form of paper currency. Another embarrassment occurred when the government found that coin was being exported in great quantities. The new specie-payment law fixed the ratio between the metals at 41 to 1. This ignored the current ratio of the remainder of the world, that in the London market at the present time being about 31 to 1. As a result of this difference gold bullion began to flow out of Chili at an alarming rate. The silver coins were also exported, because the law provided that they should contain 44 grains of pure silver, which made them worth inrinsically more than the current sliver dollar. Thus, both gold and silver were being drained out of Chili, so that the government ordered the mints to stop further coinage. Inder the law, the mints began last Saturday, and there is much interest to learn what the result will be of this latest step.

The court, therefore, refused the injunction prayed for.

CROPS IN BAD CONDITION. Winter Wheat Average Has Dropped to 71.5 Per Cent. CHICAGO, June 3 .- The June crop report of the Orange Judd Farmer, published this week, based on data up to May 27, makes the average condition of winter wheat 71.5. or 13 points short of last month, the heaviest drop in condition ever recorded in a single month. The condition is high on the Pacific coast, but in Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri and Kansas the average is only 61. According to the report the total crop in the six States named will but little more than furnish bread and seed ired within their own border, while the total winter wheat crop this year, including the large production of the Pacific coast, will not make enough to more than furnish bread alone for the people of the winter wheat States east of the Rocky mountains. The acreage of oats is reported at 29,912,000, or 3.8 per cent. larger than last year. The condition is 84, the lowest ever reported for BAD CROP NEWS.

Heat, Drought and Hessian Fly Has Got Most of the Wheat. Special to the Indianapolis Journal,

MIDDLETOWN, Ind., June 3.-The past few days have been the hottest known to the oldest inhabitant of this neighborhood. No such a drought was ever experienced here before. The crop prospects are dis couraging. Wheat is reported ruined by frosts, the Hessian fly and the drought. In this immediate neighborhood the wheat will be almost a total failure. The same may be said of oats. The meadows are scorched until the hay crop will be very short. Pastures are so dry that a number of farmers are forced to feed their stock. Corn is withering in the burning sun, and while with an early rain there is time enough yet for a good crop of corn, the rain must come soon or even this will be short. Much of the corn killed by the frosts has been replanted, but the ground is too dry to sprout the seed. Many wells heretofore regarded as never-failing have gone dry.

Wheat, Oats and Hay Given Up. Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

HAGERSTOWN, Ind., June 3.-Several thermometers here indicated 100 degrees in the shade to-day and yesterday. Some of the new wheat is yellow and dead and would burn easily. Second planting of corn is up and looks fair. Much pasture is as dry as in August. Timothy is dying. There is but little clover to cut and oats are given up. An old railway conductor said this morning that he has been running on this division of the Panhandle many years, and never saw such a general destruction of crops along the line. Wheat in several fields here has been plowed under and planted in corn.

The prisoners were strikers during the mining and railroad strikes and were incensed because Barr was hauling coal mined by nonunion men and stoned the train, killing Earr. This virtually broke the strike. The petition is signed by the representative business and professional men of the city, the county officials, the city marshal and prosecuting attorney, who prosecuted the cases. THE HIGHEST COURT

SUPREME JUSTICES ANNOUNCE SEV-ERAL DECISIONS AND ADJOURN.

Judgments Rendered by French Courts Not Valid Here-Aug. 28, 1894, Date of New Tariff Law.

WASHINGTON, June 3 .- In the Supreme Court to-day Justice Gray announced the decision of the court in the case of Henry Hilton and others vs. Guyot, liquidator of the estate of Fortin & Co., involving the validity of foreign judgments, reversing the decisions of the court below and remanding the case for trial in the Circuit Court of the Southern district of New York. Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Harlan, Brewer and Jackson dissented, the court then standing five to four, the majority being Gray, F.eld, Brown, Shiras and White. Justice Gray also announced the decision in the Ritchie case affirming the decision of the court below. This was a case involving the validity of a judgment of a Canadian court.

The case of Hilton and Libbey vs. Guyot involved the validity of judgments rendered by foreign courts against American citizens and it is understood that a large number of claims of a character similar to that prosecuted by Guyot, involving many millions of dollars in amount, have been held in abeyance until the conclusion of the court in this case should be made known. The case does not properly belong to the present term of the court. It was twice argued during the term of 1893the court prior to the adjournment of that term and it has remained undecided through this term until to-day. Guyot appears in the case as the liquidator of the French firm of Charles Fortin & Co., formerly glove manufacturers, of Paris, and Messrs. Hilton & Libbey, as the successors of A. Stewart & Co., of New York. The history of the case goes back to 1880, and that of the transactions on which it is based to 1850, when the house of Stewart & Co. entered into an agreement with one Alexandre, the predecessor of Fortin & Co., to take from the French house all the gloves manufactured by them for the American market, the two establishments to share both the profit and the loss of the business. In 1880 this agreement was brought to a close by a misunderstanding and mutual charges of bad faith. The French firm brought suit in the Tribunal of Commerce of the Seine, when the case was decided in favor of Fortin & Co. and from which decision it was appealed by Stewart & Co. to the Paris Court of Appeals, where the decision was also antagonistic to Stewart & Co., the final judgment in the French courts fixing the amount of the indebtedness of the New York bouse to the French firm at $195,122, with interest Before the final decree was announced Stewart & Co. closed the Paris establishment, and, being unable to collect the amount of the judgment in France, Fortin & Co., in 1889, brought suit in the United States Circuit Court for the Southern district of New York to compel collection of the French judgment. The defendants filed a bill of discovery, alleging counter claims and asserting that the judgment of the French court was re-examinable. The decision was rendered by Judge Wallace, of the Circuit Court. He dismissed the bill of discovery and ordered that Stewart & Co. should pay the judgment in accordance with the finding of the French courts. The case was appealed to the United States Supreme Court in 1890. The case of Samuel J. Ritchie vs. James B. McMullin and George W. McMullin, in error from the court of the Northern district of Ohio, involved the same questions as the Hilton case, except that the judgment which it was sought to have affirmed was rendered by a Canadian Justice Gray's opinion in the French case was very brief, and was delivered so indistinctly that it was impossible to catch his language. The decision was a denial of the validity of judgments of countries which do not recognize the rule of international comity in such matters. The rule of comity Justice Gray said, was recognized by some foreign countries, including Greece and Portugal, but it was not in force in the French courts. He made this refusal of the French courts to recognize the judgments of the courts of other countries the basis of his opinion, that a judgment in the French courts would not hold in this country. Chief Justice Fuller and Justices Harlan, Brewer and Jackson, who dissented, did not an nounce their reasons. In the Ritchle case in error to the Circuit Court of the North ern district of Ohlo, involving a Canadian judgment, there was no allegation of fraud but only of error on the part of the court Justice Gray said this was not sufficient foundation for a review, and affirmed the decision of the court below, which held the Canadian judgment to be valid.

Chief Justice Fuller handed down the opin ion of the court in the case of the United States vs. Burr and Hardwick, involving the date when the present tariff law went into effect. The decision was that this did not occur until Aug. 28, 1894, when the bill became a law notwithstanding the law itself fixed the date as Aug. 1. The case was regarded by the government as one of great importance, and by special arrangement was advanced to a speedy hearing. The governernment won. In this case there were three questions certified from the United States Court of Appeals for the Second circuit. The first of these was as to whether the assessment for duty under paragraph 373 of the act of Oct. 1, 1890, should be maintained, notwithstanding the provisions of the tariff act of Aug. 28, 1894, and was answered in the affirmative. The second "should merchandise entered between Aug. 1 and Aug. 28, 1894, be assessed for duty under paragraph 276, schedule "J," of the tariff act of 1894," was answered in the negative. The third question was whether the rates of duty prescribed by the first section of the tariff act of 1894 (unless otherwise provided for in the act), should be levied collected and paid on all articles imported from foreign countries or withdrawn for consumption on and after Aug. 1, 1894, and prior to Aug. 28, of the same year, out Chief Justice Fuller, who delivered the opinion of the court in this case, said the question was so indefinite that the court would not enter upon it. Chief Justice Fuller also announced that the court had decided to grant the application of Constable Beach, in the South Carolina dispensary law case, for leave to file a motion for habeas corpus. The case was set for hearing on the first Monday of the next term of court. In the case of Plutarco Ornelas vs. Inez Ruiz and others, involving the extradition of insurgents against the Mexican government, in the Garza outbreak, the Chief Justice announced that the motion to advance would be granted, and the argument was set for the first Monday in January next. The court then adjourned until the second Monday in October. Thirty-four cases which have been argued were left undecided.

GRESHAM'S PENSION.

He Did Not Surrender It, but Failed to Draw It from the Chicago Office.

CHICAGO, June 3 .- For three years Secretary Gresham had not drawn his thirtydollars-a-month pension from the Chicago pension office. He has never surrendered it, but for some reason he had not made any call for it. There is an accumulation of $1,100 to his credit. The pension was granted him for wounds received at the battle of Atlanta. Under the laws of the department the accumulation is subject to the order of his wife, and the pension of $30 a month will go to her.

Suicide Instead of Murder. MINNEAPOLIS, June 3.—Evidence pre-sented at the Elfas inquest to-day went far toward clearing Loren Elias, the weak-minded son, from the suspicion that he was the murderer of his mother an elister. A.

P. Walker, a clerk in a St. Paul gun store, testified that he had sold Mrs. Elias a .38calibre revolver, and that she had brought it back, saying it was not heavy enough, He had then exchanged it for the .44, with which the shooting was done. Mrs. Elias had once been insane, and evidence was aduced to show that she had made vague allusions to something terrible that was about to happen. Loren is still in the lockup, but sticks to his first story. The police

He was on his way home. As the train was leaving the Union Station a man asked him for some change. Schuh drew forth his long pocketbook, and the stranger seized it jump ng off near the viaduct. The old farmer jumped after him, leaving his valise on the moving train. In jumping, his knee was badly hurt, and he lost his hat. The thief was too fast for him.

A report received at headquarters about 12 o'clock last night sent Captain Quigley driving very fast toward No. 41 Elm street. From the report received it was impossible to tell whether a dead body, a baby or a dynamite bomb had been left on the porch at that number. In some way the report became twisted until it read that an attempt had been made to blow up the Elm-street Church, by placing dynamite on the front steps. No. 41 is but a short dis-tance from the church. Captain Quigley found a package on the porch at the number given. It was opened and the contents were found to be sacks. Then the family remembered that relatives living in Franklast night, promised to bring the sacks in, and it was supposed that the bundle was laid on the porch rather than awaken the family. The latter were not asleep, however, and the strange looking bundle caused considerable excitement.

Lee Fulmer's Stolen Horse. Elmer Daniels was brought from Richmond last night by Sergeant Hyland and slated for grand larceny. Sunday a horse and buggy belonging to Lee Fulmer was stolen, and the property was captured at Richmond. The horse had been driven there from here and was in a very bad condition from hard driving. The condition of the animal attracted the attention of the Richmond authorities, and led to the arrest of Daniels.
